

Demi Lovato definitely spiced things up Sunday while performing at the 2015 VMAs. Not only did she add quite a bit of sex appeal to her performance, but she also had a very special guest on stage with her during her performance of her hit "Cool for the Summer."

Demi Lovato isn't a little girl anymore, that's for sure! Instead of a cool performance, Demi decided to really heat things up while performing her hit single "Cool For The Summer" during the 2015 MTV VMAs. As if this performance wasn't rockin' on its own, it happened to be Demi's VMA performance debut, according to Billboard.

People stated that Demi Lovato promised a "sexy" and "really fun" performance for this year's VMAs, and she certainly delivered. Demi began her song lounging in a beach chair in what looked like a rather sexy one piece paired with a sweet pair of shades and a rather furry cover piece. The look was quite a bit different from the "skin-tight pink mini dress" she wore to the awards show.

Demi didn't waste a moment in getting her sexy on. As soon as the song started, she was running her hands along her curves and soon shed her shades and the little fur piece. If the performance wasn't hot enough, before we knew it, Demi was joined onstage by gal-pal Iggy Azalea.

The two didn't waste any time in getting into a groove, and as Iggy performed her part, Demi was seen grinding up against her. The two began dancing with each other, and while many fans absolutely loved the performance by Iggy, some apparently weren't all too pleased.

According to the Mirror, Iggy Azalea was reportedly blasted for her performance with Demi Lovato at this year's VMAs.

Hater's gonna hate, right? Even with these rather rough messages, Iggy was still happy to reach out via Twitter to blow off the haters and let everyone know she still had a blast with Demi Lovato!
